

Separation of Powers

* The Framers of the Constitution decided to divide the powers of government between three groups or branches as shown in the excerpts from the Constitution on page 7. They hoped that in this way no one person or group would get too powerful. Each branch would operate independently of the others and have its own special powers.

